The cube is covered on five sides with a drawing that I made that is called „the 4 chairmen“. Each of the chairmen and their symbol occupy one side of the cube. On the fifth side, in the middle of the drawing, there is a table which contains a cuboctahedron that symbolizes order and stability or equilibrium. The last side has a drawing which is called „Darkness“. It resembles a woven network in the form of a black hole.

In my belief, the world can be seen not only in positive and negative aspects but in terms of truth, love, ego and diligence, which like the four cardinal points (NSEW) or the four elements (air, earth, water, fire) create a more reliable value system. In the middle of these elements is the soul which has a light and a dark nature.

The Contribution

My proposal for DEMODICE is based on social equality and sustainability, values that I believe are core for democratic societies. We don't only need laws and policies to promote citizens' rights, we need to make sure these rights are covered so all citizens can fulfil their basic needs to have a chance to improve our society. Otherways, some people are just surviving while others are deciding our future. I choose to show 3 "sides" of social inequality such as housing exclusion, food poverty and energy poverty because they are showing basic needs and human rights that are not always covered. On the other side of the cubes, I wanted to show some alternatives that are rooting from the same society such as social housing or squatting food sovereignty with self-production and energy sovereignty with sustainable energy.

Democracy here is beyond the establishment or political system. Democracy here is owned by people that want to to fulfil needs and rights to become active citizens.
